1. The wooden bridge in Gorzow [5102N-1826E] spans the Warthe River, and accommodated vehicles (no trams) and pedestrians. The length of the bridge was about 150 m., about two automobiles wide, and about seven to eight meters high. The bridge was of wood construction and was east of a war-destroyed concrete bridge.

2. [redacted] directly east of the wooden bridge a new concrete arch bridge [redacted] was in the process of construction which eventually would replace the wooden bridge.

[redacted] the bridge appeared to be half completed.
